Positive Behavior Supports and Response to Intervention: Using Universal Screening and Progress Monitoring in Schools

with

Dr. Jeffrey Sprague

The University of Oregon Institute on Violence and Destructive Behavior

- Who: This two-day workshop is for anybody who works with children. It is geared for regular classroom teachers, special education teachers, school psychologists, counselors, school program coordinators and school administrators.
- Where: Best Western Ramkota in Casper, WY
Room rates are $70.00
Telephone number for Best Western Ramkota: 1-800-528-1234
- What: Dr. Sprague will describe how a PBS/RTI approach should be used to identify students in need of additional supports and outline a framework for selecting and implementing evidence-based interventions for behavior support using the “three-tier” public health logic model. He will also describe the background and procedures of a comprehensive approach to support at-risk students. In addition he will share what the literature says about the school-, person-, and program-level factors that influence Adoption, Implementation, and Maintenance (AIM) of effective PBS practices.
